SLEEP.

Come, gentle sleep, sweet, soothing sleep,
Come and my senses infold;
Come to me now,
Come to me now,
For the last chimes of midnight have toll'd—
The last hour of midnight has toll'd!

Come, gentle sleep, soft, silent sleep,
Come lull my mind to repose;
Come to me now,
Come to me now
And mine eyes with thy soft fingers close—
Mine eyes with thy silken hand close.

Come, gentle sleep, dear, dreamy sleep,
Haste, and bring rest to my frame,
Come to me now,
Come to me now
As in time of my childhood you came—
As in youth's golden season you came.

Come, gentle sleep, beautiful sleep,
Come and my troubles shall cease;
Come to me now,
Come to me now,
Come and my heart fill with peace—
My heart all with bliss and thy peace.

Come, gentle sleep, blest, blissful sleep,
Come breathe around me thy balm,
Come to me now,
Come to me now
And my soul with thy sweet presence calm—
My soul with thy gentleness calm!

Come, gentle sleep—come, balmy sleep,
Come like a dove to my breast;
Come to me now,
Come to me now—
Haste, I am weary, weary for rest—
Weary, weary—weary for rest.
—James Murphy, in Good Housekeeping.

LOVE OR MONEY.

Final Choice of a Mercenary Little Wretch.

She was so pretty—so very pretty—so childishly willful, with her face puckered into frowns, and her lips pouting, that the heart of the man looking at her ached with heavy pain, and responded with throbs of agony as she stabbed it again and again with her words. He loved her deeply, and yet so unselfishly, that he was honestly trying to hope she would be happy without him, although his life-dream had been to contribute to that happiness.

"You are so unreasonable," she protested, "to tell me now that you love me."

"But I hoped to-day," he said, sadly, "you might still be free to choose your own future."

"Why, so I am; but my grandfather's choice for me is—" She hesitated, and then, leaving her sentence unfinished, rushed on, in rapid utterance: "Frank and I have known each other since we were little children, and you know I was always a mercenary little wretch."

"Were you?" he asked, with a smile more pitiful than tears.

"You know I was! You know I used to fondle grandpa, and coax and flatter him, just because he was rich; for he was not very affectionate. I was planning for a legacy, and I must have one, even if I have to take Frank with it; and Frank is good-natured, and fond of me."

"And your grandfather leaves you nothing if you do not marry Frank?"

"Nothing! He can refuse me but I can not refuse him without forfeiting all share in grandfather's money. I call it shabby, but there it is! And I am so tired of being poor, so tired of turning old dresses, patching my boots, saving car fares to buy gloves. Oh, Bert! don't look as if you wanted to cry. You are well rid of such a selfish little horror as I am, you are indeed!"

"I will try to think so," he said, pressing his white lips together for a moment before speaking. "I hope you will be very, very happy. But—if you should find, on consideration, that—"

"Now, please!" she said, looking up at him with misty eyes.

"I only want to say, dear—I may call you dear once—that life with me, although not such a life of luxury as your cousin Frank offers, will not be absolute poverty, while I have my strength to work for you."

"But you have only a salary, and not a large one."

"Very true! Still, if you can think of me and my salary with favor—with love, dear—one word, 'Come,' will bring me to your side. I will not tease you any more to-day. Good-bye."

He was gone a moment later, and the unreasonable little lady was crying like a baby.

"I'm not worth his love!" she sobbed, tearing her very best handkerchief with her nervous fingers; "I'm only a nasty little bunch of avarice and selfishness! But I am glad it is over, and now—good-bye to poverty, music lessons and make-shifts. I will accept Aunt Jane's invitation!"

Aunt Jane's invitation had been to the effect that, as her father had wished her son and her niece to marry, she thought it would be well for said niece, Elsie Reed, to make a visit to L—— and become accustomed to her future home.

So it was only three hours after her parting with Herbert Redlow when Elsie drove to the depot to take a train for L—— and leave poverty, music lessons, and, perhaps, true, earnest love behind her forever. So she assured herself.

Her welcome was a warm one from her aunt, but Frank was stiff and embarrassed. Every wish of the little heart was gratified in the new home. Dresses, bonnets, jewelry, were given her with lavish hands, and she flitted from one superb room to another, trying to fancy herself the mistress of the wealth around her.

The grand piano, under her skilled fingers, gave forth treasures of music, all of the showy, brilliant type, and her voice, like a bird's, carolled the blithest ballads.

But surely no bird or butterfly was ever more restless in a gilded cage than Elsie in her new home. She was never still. Walking, riding, driving, gardening, flitting here and there, till Aunt Jane, a model of repose, wondered she did not drop down with actual exhaustion.

"I don't sleep well unless I am tired," she said once, in answer to some gentle remonstrance.

"But, my dear, at twenty, you surely know, you ought to sleep well."

"Twenty! I feel as if I were fifty!" and having made this tremendous assertion, she flitted from a French window and down the balcony steps like a child of ten.

It was April when old Mr. Reed died, and in September his grandchildren were to be married. There was only Aunt Jane to care for the details of Elsie's trousseau, for the young girl was an orphan, and her father's marriage had been displeasing to her grandfather. But for the kindness of Aunt Jane and Frank, she would have had scant welcome at L—— during the old man's lifetime.

But Aunt Jane was equal to the emergency, and the profusion of Elsie's bridal wardrobe was a good earnest of the luxuries to come after her marriage.

"I wonder, now," Elsie thought, after the rapid flight into the garden already described, "what is Frank's opinion of all this. Four blessed months have I been in this house, and he has not once spoken a word of love to me. He is all courtesy, gentleness, and—I will say it once—stupidity, has as much like a lover as a walking cane. I suppose he don't like having his wife willed to him, like a tea-pot or a cake-basket. Why couldn't my grandfather have left me a tiny, tiny little fortune all my own? I can't wear more than one dress at a time, after all, and nobody can eat more than one dinner, if they order enough for fifty. Oh, dear! There is Frank now, in the summer-house, looking like—h'm, but mu sed Downcast face, brooding eyes, hands clenched fast! Not like happiness—grief is too mild a word—he looks like despair! Why? I believe I'll have it out with him now!"

In pursuance of which design Elsie presented herself before her betrothed, rousing him from his gloomy abstraction to his usual gentle courtesy.

"What were you thinking of as I came down the walk?" she asked abruptly.

For moment he looked confused, but answered, very gently:

"A man's thoughts are not always ready for dress parade, Elsie."

"Were you thinking of me?"

"No."

"I am glad of that. I should expect to find a dose of arsenic in my next cup of tea, if you had been."

"Did I really look so murderous?" he said, smiling as old people smile at the vagaries of their children.

"You looked—" then she paused, and came nearer to him upon the rustic seat. "Frank, she said softly, and with eyes of womanly tenderness, giving a new beauty to her winsome face, "will you answer me one question truthfully? Only one?"

For a moment he hesitated, then with a long deep breath, he braced himself as if to meet a blow, and said:

"I will!"

"Did you love somebody else when grandfather died?"

"Somebody else?"

"Besides me! Are you keeping the terms of the will because you will not thrust me out of a share of grandfather's will? Are you breaking your own heart—"

"Stop, Elsie! There are many questions."

"Answer my first one, then. Do you love somebody else better than your little cousin?"

"Yes!" was the murmured answer.

"Oh, so do I! so do I! It is all a wretched mistake! Oh, Frank!" In a passion of tears.

Never had he been so lover-like as now, when he had renounced her. He took her in his arms, soothed her, kissed her, called her pet names.

"Don't Elsie, don't sob so. My dear child, there shall be no compulsion. I thought you were heart whole."

"So I ought to be. I treated him shamefully. I told him I wanted money, money, lots of money. I was hateful!"

Then there was a sobbing confession, and a cousinly confidence; and Aunt Jane, seeing the pair coming arm in arm, thought:

"Why, dear me, the dear children have come to an understanding, and Frank will forget Agnes, after all. I am so glad!"

* * * * * * *

The summer had been a long one to Herbert. He worked, studied in the evenings, wearied himself in many ways, having much of the same restlessness that had tormented Elsie. He tried to think he had had a wonderful escape in losing his dream of love.

"She would have been always discontented and unhappy," he thought, "and she is hard, selfish and mercenary by her own confession. But I love her! I love her! How I would have worked for her! In time I might have conquered fortune, and given her the riches she coveted. My little love! So patient, so industrious, so tender, until this will came to part us."

Unhappy thoughts do not tend to improve health, and in July, Herbert looked haggard and pale. He was entitled to a holiday of two weeks, and took it at L——. Elsie did not dream that he was near her, but he saw her every day, heard the brilliant music that floated out from the window, under the touch of her fingers, saw the dainty riding dress, the pretty home dresses that flitted about the garden, and thought:

"She is happy. She never loved me, or she has forgotten me."

So he was not so much improved by his trip, as he might have been had he taken it in some other locality, and he went back to his office work a little more haggard and paler than when he left it.

But a wonderful change awaited him. Years before, when he was but a boy, he had gone with his father, long dead, to see a great-uncle, who even then appeared to his youthful eyes a marvel of age. He had a dim recollection of a miserable, shabby house, an old woman servant, who cooked a horrible soup, and a general impression that his uncle was a man of great poverty, and much to be pitied. And now, when he had almost forgotten his father ever had an uncle, there came to him a lawyer's letter, brief, formal, informing him that the old miser had died, and left him sole heir to about a quarter of a million.

It stunned him. He thought he was dreaming. When persuaded that he was awake, he thought of Elsie.

"I could win her now," he said, reluctantly. "I can offer her what she covets. I can buy her love!"

And his manliness revolted, and his heart said, sadly:

"Better lose her forever!"

He was listening to his own thoughts, almost hating the good fortune that came due into, when there was a little knock upon his office door, and in a moment there was Elsie!

Surely it was all a dream! For she was sobbing out.

"Oh, Bert, I dared not write, for fear that you could not forgive me! I am so sorry, I am so miserable—No!" she cried, seeing his face. "I am the happiest woman in the world."

It was well there was no one about, for really the way the tears and smiles struggled for mastery was very bewildering.

"You have come to me?" Bert said—"come to share my poverty!"

"If you will take me," Elsie answered humbly. "I can get some of my scholars back to help along a little."

"Oh!"

"And I don't mind turning my dresses, or saving car fares for gloves, if only you will forgive me."

"Will you—" he asked, slowly and deliberately, "come with me to-day, now, to a clergyman and be my wife?"

"Yes!"

And she actually did. She knew nothing about the great uncle for a month, for Bert wanted to feel the keen happiness of knowing he was loved for himself alone.

But Aunt Jane sent the whole trousseau to the new home to which Bert took his wife early in September, and at Frank's wedding there was not a guest more beautifully dressed, or more radiantly happy, than the "mercenary little wretch" who might have stood in the bride's place.—Anna Shields, in N. Y. Ledger.

THE VENOM OF SNAKES.

Pigs the Only Warm-Blooded Animals Not Affected by the Poison.

From the time of Fontana, the first writer on the subject (1767), to the present, a multitude of theories have been broached as to the composition and nature of snake poison. This being the age of microbes, it was natural that its lethal qualities should be ascribed to the presence of microscopic organisms—a theory, however, which has been disproved by actual experiment. The venom of the cobra di capello and the fer de lance, inclosed in a sterilized vessel and exposed for three hours to a temperature of 125 degrees Centigrade, still retains its peculiar properties. It is effective even when mixed with alcohol or ammonia, and resists the action of the most powerful acids, such as caustic potash and nitrate of silver. Snake venom in its natural state, though somewhat like ordinary saliva, is less fluid and more gummy, its color varying from amber to clear yellow. It dries rapidly on exposure to the air, when, while retaining its natural color, it becomes glassy and shining. The latest authority on its chemical composition is M. Armand Gautier. After analysing many specimens he has come to the conclusion that the active principle of all snake venom is animal alkaloid analogous to that which is found in a putrifying body; and how deadly that is, many an unfortunate surgeon, accidentally inoculated while making an autopsy, has found to his cost. The venom is neither a virus nor a ferment. It is a septic principle like strychnine and digitalis, and, like strychnine and digitalis, it acts always in the same way, other things being equal. Hence (assuming the correctness of M. Gautier's theory) the venom of the English viper and the cobra are practically identical, the bite of the latter being more fatal simply because nature has provided him with a greater abundance of septic matter. According to Dr. Weir Mitchell and other authorities the glands of the viper contain 10 centigrammes of venom, those of the rattlesnake from 48 to 81 centigrammes, of the Indian naga 1.30 grammes. The virulence of the venom, or rather the vigor of the serpent, is, moreover, modified by climate and temperature. In the higher parts of Martinique, for instance, the poison from snakes is much less dangerous and much less frequent than in the valleys and plains. The greater freshness of mountain air lowers the snake vitality, and though his store of venom may be the same he strikes his enemy or his prey with diminished energy. Snakes only enjoy the fullness of their powers in low latitudes. Cold stupefies them. The European viper becomes torpid in winter, and menagerie snakes are roused with difficulty from their habitual languor. On the other hand, cold-blooded animals—mollusks, fishes, frogs, turtles and snakes themselves—are impervious to the poison which the latter secrete. The only warm-blooded creatures proof against it are pigs, an immunity which they owe to the thickness of their adipose tissue. —Science.

A Doctor's Bill Saved.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 28, 1888
The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.:
Gentlemen—In the fall of 1887 a case of blood poison developed on me. It was extremely bad and the glands about my neck became fearfully enlarged. A friend who had reaped great benefit from your medicine induced me to try S. S. S. Before the first bottle was gone the swelling went down and I began to improve. In less than two months I was entirely well. My skin is perfectly clear now, and my blood absolutely pure. I am absolutely certain that Swift's Specific not only cured me, but at the same time saved me a big doctor's bill. I shall always cheerfully recommend your medicine whenever an opportunity offers.
Gratefully yours,
ADAM SCHEUER.

Spring Disorders

Brigadier-General W. L. Greenleaf, Burlington, Vt., writes: "I have used Paine's Celery Compound on several occasions, and always with benefit. Last spring, being very much run down and debilitated, I commenced taking it. Two bottles made me feel like a new man. As a general tonic and spring medicine I do not know of its equal."

Shattered nerves, tired brain, impure blood, debilitated system, all are the natural outcome in the Spring. A medicine must be used, and nothing equals Paine's Celery Compound. We let others praise us—you cannot help believing a disinterested party.

"I have used two bottles of your Paine's Celery Compound, and it has given entire satisfaction as an appetizer and blood purifier." T. L. BERNER, Watertown, Dakota.

CHAS. M. MEACHAM, ... Editor

FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1889.

HOPKINSVILLE, KENTUCKY.

A live and growing city of 9,000 inhabitants, situated in a county of 40,000. The Louisville and Nashville has two lines of railroad in the county and the people have recently voted aid to two new roads. Largest tobacco growing county in the world. Wheat, corn, hay coal, live stock and fruits produced for export in large quantities. The city has four banks with an aggregate capital of $650,000. A planing mill and wagon factory, three carriage factories, lime factory, tobacco manufactory, two foundries, three brickyards, broom factory, steam laundry, ice factory, two large flouring mills in the city and several in the county. Splendid driving park and fine opera house. Five turnpikes centering in Hopkinsville. Building and Loan Association, Commercial Club, a telephone exchange, numbered streets and houses and city lighted by gas Macedamized streets and brick sidewalks all over the city. Eleven churches, two colleges a high school and the finest system of public schools, white and colored, in the State. Western Kentucky Lunatic Asylum with a population of 650, two miles east of the city. A $100,000 court house with town clock in the dome A fine fire department and a company of State Guards. Little River furnishes an adequate supply of water for all purposes Real estate low and rents cheap. Fine opening for woolen mill, pork packing establishment, fruit cannery, lanyard and many other enterprises.

Climate mild and invigorating and exceedingly healthful.

The Southern Baptist Convention will meet in Memphis, May 10.

The Prohibitionists of Henderson county have nominated Audrew B. Eglen for the Legislature.

It is highly probable that Mr. Jno. W. Cooper will be a Democratic candidate for the Legislature in this county.

Col. Jno. D. Shaw, Circuit Court Clerk of Trigg county, is an announced candidate for clerk of the court of appeals, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Col. Shaw is an honest, a capable and above all a sober man. Christian county will honor his slight draft for eleven votes.

People are already leaving Oklahoma in large numbers. Water has given out and food is very scarce. There are no houses to shelter the people and the hot days and cold nights are causing much suffering and sickness. The public land has all been taken up and those who failed to get claims are in a very bad fix.

It is pretty well settled that "Quinine Jim" McKenzie will be a candidate for the Senate and Western Kentucky will be expected to rally as one man to his support. It is about time for Kentucky to send some one to the Senate who can attract attention in other ways than by wearing colored shirts, bloviating in newspaper controversies and pulling the ears of other Senators.

A dispatch from Horse Cave announces that Milt Slinker died at Cave City, last Monday. His death is said to have been a most horrible one. During the twelve hours preceding his death, he drank a gallon of whisky and six buckelsful of ice-water. His sufferings were intense, and nine hours after his death blood issued from his nose and mouth in a stream. He died of alcoholism.—Ex.

Auditor Hewett filed his threatened libel suits against the Covington Commonwealth and Owensboro Inquirer in the Common Pleas Court of Louisville, Tuesday. He wants $50,000 damages in each case. He bases his action upon an editorial that appeared in the Inquirer Mar. 15, 1889 and upon an article published in the Commonwealth Feb. 28, 1889. Helm & Bruce are his attorneys.

Dr. James Rodman says he attributes a large measure of whatever success he has attained in his profession to the friendly spirit and kindly treatment of the State press, especially the country papers. The newspaper men have always been his friends and he has in fact been upon such intimate terms with many of them that he almost regards himself as one of the press boys. He is a subscriber to more of the State papers perhaps than any other man in the state.

The Danville Advocate speaks of "the Hopkins Circuit Court, at Hopkinsville," in noticing the conviction of Wiley last week. Our bluegrass contemporary falls into an error by jumping at a conclusion. Hopkinsville is not in Hopkins county. Nor is Madisonville in Madison county, Owensboro in Owen county, Bowling Green in Green county, Franklin in Franklin county, Caseyville in Casey county, or Scottsville in Scott county. We might even go further and add that Louisville is not in Lewis county.

The Lewisport Post makes these remarks about Christian's prospective candidate for the Senate: "It is high time, if Western Kentucky expects to be in the race, to trot out her horse, so he may be groomed and galloped for the coming Senatorial Handicap. Of course the Blue Grass thoroughbreds will kick up and roar at the presumption of a "cold blood" entering without the seventeen crosses, and will play the books for the "pennyrile's" tall to fly up on the first quarter; but even a thoroughbred can go lame, and all the firing imaginable won't sometimes fix a strained tender or a week lolu, and from all the indications the Blue Grass favorite in the coming contest has strained himself in former "mile heats" and with the penalty added, a Western Kentucky horse can win hands down. The Post nominates that good sorrel family horse never known to be left at the post, Jim McKenzie."

Jno. F. and Bert McElrath father and son, have been indicted at Mayfield for the murder of the illegitimate child of the Elder McElrath's daughter—one of the belles of the county.

The editor of the Frankfort Capital doesn't believe that "marriage is a failure." Here is the advice he gives to a feminine contemporary:

"Miss Hetta Coleman, the handsome young editor of the Meade County News, who has made her thousands by lucky natural gas investments, announces that she "will continue in the newspaper business for recreation and amusement." If that is your idea, Miss Hette, what's the matter with getting married?"

The May number of Godey's Lady's Book is full of attractive features. The frontispiece illustration is a pleasing picture entitled "I dess it's B'oked." The colored and black fashions and work novelties are shown in great variety. The Illustrated story, "Her Own Way," by Emily Lennox, is charming. "The Lady of the Miniature," by Lucy Foster, "A Story of the Cardinal Virtues," by Augusta de Bubne, and "A Handful of Wild Flowers," by M. E. C., are each of particular merit. "A Woman's Way" grows in interest. Numerous short sketches and poems fill up a well selected collection of light reading. "Aunt Jane's Practical Fortune-Telling," "Chats with our Neighbors," and the Household Department are of interest and practical value to housekeepers.

The fashion gossip and foreign letter are full of interest; and the boys and girls will find pleasing work suggested for them. Taken as a whole, the May number is one that no one can afford to do without who desires both amusement and instruction.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local desease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co, Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucus surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO, Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Company's new line to Cincinnati is completed, as is also its double track iron bridge across the Ohio at Cincinnati, and its trains are now entering the Central Union Depot over the double track elevated railway. Connections are made in the same depot with the O. & M. Railway for the West, and the Big Four (Kankakee line) and other lines for the West and North-west. The Chesapeake & Ohio has placed a contract with the Pullman Company for four complete Vestibule Trains, which will begin running between Cincinnati, Washington and New York early in the month of May. The schedule of the "Vestibule Limited" will shorten the time about six hours over the present schedule.

Killed in Tennessee.

[Tobacco Leaf.]

Howard Turner, the seventeen-year-old son of J. J. Turner, deceased, while squirrel hunting near Batavia store, in Dickson county, Saturday afternoon, met a tragic death. In stepping from a log the hammer of his gun was struck in some way, and the contents of one barrel was discharged, entering the young man's abdomen, and ranging upward lodged in the liver. His cries attracted the attention of some plowmen in an adjoining field, who hastened to give him all the relief in their power. The unfortunate youth lingered in great agony until Sunday morning, when he died.

MATRIMONIAL.

Mr. C. C. Nolan and Miss Virginia Harris were married near Peacher's Mill, Tenn., last Sunday, Rev. F. W. Carney officiating.

Four couples belonging to the crowd of colored excursionists here Saturday got license to marry from County Clerk Moseley. Esq. Caldwell was called in and kindly said the ceremony, uniting the lives and fortunes of two of the couples.—Tobacco Leaf.

It hasn't been long since Senator Beck was thought to be nearing his end. Now it is reported that he is soon to take unto himself another wife. The lady is Miss Margaret Cameron, at present a clerk in the Quartermaster-General's office. She is a handsome brunette with a well-rounded figure and pleasing manners.

Mr. W. R. Nisbit, of Carrollton, Ga., and Miss Lela Robb, daughter of the late Alfred Robb, Clarksville, were married at the Presbyterian church, Tuesday evening at 2 o'clock, by Rev. J. W. Lupton.

Willeford----Bacon.

The Des Arc (Ark) Citizen of the 19th inst. contains a lengthy account of the marriage of a young lady who is a native of the Belleview neighborhood and is well known in both Christian and Trigg counties. The following extracts give the material points:

"WILLEFORD—BACON. — On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, at the Methodist church in Des Arc, Ark., Mr. W. L. Willeford was joined in the holy bands of connubial bliss to Miss Maggie Bacon. Rev. D. T Holmes, pastor of the Methodist church, spoke the solemn edict which converted the twain into oneness.

Mr. W. L. Willeford, the bridegroom, is Prairie County's very capable, accommodating and worthy county and circuit clerk; a gentleman of culture and refinement, and withal a substantial, reliable citizen. He is now serving his fourth term as county and circuit clerk, which fact carries with it also that he is popular with the masses.

Miss Maggie Bacon, the bride, is the daughter of Mr. Ben Bacon, an honest, upright country gentleman, residing near Des Arc, and who moved from Kentucky to this place some two years ago. Miss Maggie is an amiable and intelligent young lady, possessed of many noble traits of character and most highly esteemed by all who know her."

The many friends of the young bride, in this vicinity, will unite in wishing her much happiness and in extending congratulations to the happy groom.

Rev. Mr. Smith, of Clarksville, preached to an appreciative congregation Friday night.

Contrary to the wishes of our whisky-loving neighbors, our merchants have decided not to apply for a license to retail spirituous, vinous and malt liquors.

Some of our church goers will attend the quarterly meeting services at Herndon next Sunday.

Call and see the big stock of Furniture just received by WHITE & HAM.

The excursion train passed on time Saturday morning bound for Clarksville with 400 happy excursionists on board, only two accidents occurred while the train was here, Moses Short carved another coon with a hand axe, while Pat Hawks engaged in a too promiscuous projection of geological fragments. Finis Willford was the only unfortunate one who came in direct contact with any of Pat's playthings. We understan that there were only seven more fights between here and Clarksville. Being pretty well for the first trip of the season.

Rev. Mr. Metcalfe held divine services at Concord Church, Sunday. In the afternoon a Union Sunday School was organized with Dr. Rascoe as Superintendent. Bro. Metcalfe will preach for that congregation this year. At his next regular appointment (third Sunday in May.) a re-union of the old members will be held and an old fashioned basket dinner will be prepared for all who attend. It is hoped a rich harvest for the cause of the Master will result from the efforts of the venerable minister mentioned above, during the ensuing year.

White & Ham carry a $10,000 stock and can and will do as well by you as any merchants in Hopkinsville or Clarksville. Call on them and be convinced.

Mr. Sam White returned from Louisville to-day, where he went to purchase a quantity of pipe, and a hydraulic ram to supply his home and this village with water. The water is to be raised 60 feet perpendicular height, and conveyed more than one mile. It is to be constructed by the Ott Manufacturing Co, of Louisville, and guaranteed to work satisfactorily. REASONS

Why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is preferable to any other for the cure of Blood Diseases.

Because no poisonous or deleterious ingredients enter into the composition of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla contains only the purest and most effective remedial properties.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is prescribed by leading physicians.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is for sale everywhere, and recommended by all first-class druggists.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a medicine, and not a beverage in disguise.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla never fails to effect a cure, when persistently used, according to directions.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a highly concentrated extract, and therefore the most economical Blood Medicine in the market.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla has had a successful career of nearly half a century, and was never so popular as at present.

—Thousands of testimonials are on file from those benefited by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

THEO. E. CARTLEY, - - Business Manager

FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1889.

PERSONAL GOSSIP.

Mrs. J. F. Pyle is quite sick with rheumatism.

Miss Lizzie Graves has gone to Nashville to spend a week.

Dr. J. J. Melton, of Sulphur City, was in town a day or two ago.

Miss Grace Crawford is visiting Miss Hattie Kelly, of the Casky neighborhood.

Miss Lula Bryan has been dangerously ill for several days, but is now slightly improved.

Miss Lizzie White, of Julien, returned to her home yesterday after a pleasant visit to the city.

Mrs. S. F. Prestridge, of Selma, Ala., arrived in the city yesterday to pay a two weeks visit to her son, Rev. J. N. Prestridge.

Mrs. S. E. Campbell and daughter, Miss Sallie, were called to Hopkinsville a few days last week by the illness of Dr. Cook, brother of Mrs. Campbell.—Clarksville Tobacco Leaf.

CREAM OF NEWS.

Gorman's Minstrels.

Of the minstrel show booked for to morrow night, the Salem News says: "There was a rollicking, snappy air about the entertainment given at Mechanic hall last evening by Gormans' Minstrels that was truly refreshing. The opaque mantia of degenerated fossilization that has of late been considered the legitimate companion of the modern exponents of "mastodonic" minstrelsy has been almost disintegrated by the keen-witted, supple-limbed, and silver-voiced young men, occupying the prominent positions in the aggregation of artists who comprise Gorman Brothers' organization. The programme was a delectable concoction of things that were teeming with wit, melodious music and thoroughly finished exemplification of the poetry of motion. The audience was large, and the excellence of the performance was so generally appreciated that the repeated encores demanded became rather burdensome."

Prices as usual. Remember this is the last engagement for this season and do not fail to attend.

Wants Damages.

Mr. H. C. McCord, after a long and doubtful illness from the wound received March 2, has so far recovered as to be up and was in this city last Monday, though looking very pale and weak. While here he filed, through his attorney James Breathitt, Esq., a suit for $10,000 damages against Wm. H. Long, who assaulted him. He alleges that the defendant maliciously assaulted, beat and bruised him with a stick, causing great bodily harm. It will be remembered that the trouble occurred at the prohibition election, Mr. McCord having excited Mr. Long's displeasure by the interest he was taking in the prohibition question.

To-morrow's Convention.

The Democracy of Christian county has been called to meet in mass convention at the court house to-morrow at 1 o'clock p. m., to send delegates to the State Convention at Louisville May 8. The treasurer's office is the only one to be filled this year and there is but one candidate for it, the present incumbent, Judge S. G. Sharp, of Lexington.

Dedication.

The Christian church at Crofton will be dedicated Sunday, the 5th prox., by Rev. H. A. Macdonald, of this city. Rev. J. W. Gant, of Elkton, will preach in the afternoon. Dinner will be on the grounds and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to be present. There will be no morning services at the Christian church in this city on that day.

Lost a Finger.

Mr. Josh. S. Summers, of Longview, while assisting in unloading a hogshead of tobacco in the city yesterday had one of the fingers on the right hand so badly mashed that amputation was necessary.

Assignment.

B. F. Wood, a merchant at Pembroke, made an assignment last week. Liabilities $2,000. Assets about one-third that amount.

Something About a Popular Hotel.

Speaking of hotels and their accommodations, etc., reminds us of the Fifth Avenue, Louisville, which, under its present management, that of Capt. James T. Rohlc, the proprietor, is taking the lead among the hotels of that city. This popular house is situated only a short distance from the State and Federal Courts, and is convenient to all the principal places of amusement. It has been newly fitted up and its accommodations are now first-class in every particular. The fare is simply excellent, consisting of every variety the market affords and served in such a manner that it not only appeases the appetite of the well, but tempts even the sick. For cleanliness and comfort this popular hotel is not surpassed, everything having strictly a homelike appearance—indeed so inviting that after a stop of a few days, one feels loth to leave for other larger cities. The price is only $2 per day, and really it seems to me to be fully equal, if not superior, to many of the $3 and $4 houses. If you would wish to have a season of enjoyment while sojourning in Louisville at any time, stop at the Fifth Avenue and you will not be disappointed.

The most desirable way for persons of moderate means to secure homes is to become members of the Hopkinsville Building and Loan Association. 3fa

A mad-dog caused a good deal of excitement in the Beverly neighborhood this week. Several dogs and other animals were bitten before the diseased dog was killed.

It is rumored that a man named Cush Henderson was shot in the stomach and badly wounded near Fairview by John McCalpin. Nothing could be learned of the matter.

Mr. Wm. Ware is building him a $10,000 residence in Hadensville, Todd county. Mr. Ware is a wealthy and prosperous merchant and planter.—Clarksville Progress.

Tommy Morrow, a twelve-year-old son of Mr. T. J. Morrow, while hunting in his father's woods near town Tuesday, found 25 young squirrels in one tree and succeeded in shooting 13 of them.

The Brooklyn, the ship upon which Lieut. Southerland has been cruising since July, 1888, arrived at New York Wednesday. Mrs. Southerland left yesterday for New York to meet her husband.

The protracted meeting at Casky is progressing satisfactorily. There have been several additions to the church and the interest is increasing. Rev. G. H. Simmons will remain throughout the week.

Silas Bennett, Trenton, has moved his stock of groceries into the new brick erected for that purpose, next door to Joe Metz's store in that place, where he desires to have his friends, old and young, to call on him.

The Centennial of Washington's Inauguration as President, will be observed at Grace Episcopal Church, on Tuesday, April 30th, at 9 A. M. by appropriate services. The public cordially invited to attend.

It is becoming more evident every day that the spring meeting of the Driving Park will be a pronounced success. A great many letters of inquiry continue to pour in on the Secretary and it is now a settled fact that all of the rings will be well filled.

A well informed farmer of the Montgomery neighborhood is authority for the statement that four times as much Trigg tobacco is being shipped to Hopkinsville as was sent here last year. This is the natural market for our western neighbors and they have tried other markets only to find that none are better than Hopkinsville's. Many of them are now hauling across the railroad and delivering their tobacco to the various warehouses here.

Wednesday was a lively day in police circles. One fight occurred at the Tobacco Exchange between Jim Dollins and Frank Dulin, in which Dollins drew a knife and threatened to cut Dulin's throat, Dollins was fined and Dulin acquitted. Another fight occurred in a Seventh street saloon and the court very properly took the ground that there is no right side to a bar-room row and fined both parties. The total fines and costs assessed during the day amounted to $43 00.

A special meeting was held at the Commercial Club rooms Tuesday night, at which the prosperity of the city was discussed by several gentlemen invited to speak. All agreed that our natural advantages cannot be excelled and that with another railroad and a proper amount of push on the part of the citizens Hopkinsville would speedily forge ahead of surrounding towns that make larger pretensions. A call was made for new members for the Club and sixteen gentlemen enrolled their names. The membership has heretofore been about 35 or 40, but it should be doubled and can be with a proper effort.

Entitled to the Best.

All are entitled to the best that their money will buy, and every family should have, at once, a bottle of the best family remedy, Syrup of Figs, to cleanse the system when costive or bilious. For sale in 50 cents and $1.00 bottles by all leading druggists.

WEST SIDE PARK.

Spring Meeting 1889.

The Spring meeting at West Side Park, Nashville, Tenn., begins Thursday, May 2nd and continues nine days. There will be five races each day in which many of the noted horses in the South and West will take part. There are two electric lines of Street Cars, also the N. C. & St. L. Railway running directly to the Grand Stand, making trips every ten minutes at the low rate of five cents Reduced rates will be given on all railroads leading into the city and a large number from a distance will avail themselves of the opportunity to be present on this grand occasion. The races will commence promptly at 2 o'clock each day, thirty minutes being allowed between each race. Secretary Gillock and President Fogg will spare no pains to make this Spring Meeting a success in every particular and lovers of fine stock should not fail to be present as many days as possible. Remember the date, commencing Thursday, May 2nd and closing Saturday May 11th. Positively no postponement.

C. H. GILLOCK, Secretary.
G. M. FOGG, President.*

A Handsome Vehicle.

Messrs. Cooper & Cansler have had built at the carriage factory of Bonte & Wright a two-horse cabriolet. It is the prettiest vehicle that has ever been built or run in this city, and will only be let out by the owners on special occasions. It was made to carry six persons including the driver. The body is what is called the "platform C" spring, which is said to be the very best; it has spring backs and cushions upholstered in English green cloth, and the body and running gear being painted in black, presents an agreeable contrast. The striping and ornaments are in gold and the finishings in gold plate. The self-lowering and raising book steps are an excellent device, affording a perfect protection to ladies dresses in getting into or alighting from the vehicle. Taken altogether we must say that none of the cities can boast of anything of the kind that surpasses it, and the job cannot be duplicated elsewhere for less than $500. This is a large sum to invest in a carriage for the use of the public, but those enterprising, go-ahead livery men, Cooper & Cansler, are never to be outdone in anything. The woodwork was done by Mr. W. T. Bonte, a master in his branch of the business, while the painting and varnishing is the work of Mr. W. C. Wright, one of the firm, who has no superior. The trimming was done by Mr. —— Luttridge, who stands at the head in his line. To-morrow afternoon the vehicle will be on the streets drawn by four iron-greys, and can be seen and admired by all.

Schools to Observe.

The Supt. of Public Instruction suggests that it would be well for the county superintendents of common schools, in their respective counties, to secure as far as may be practicable, by the teachers, pupils and trustees of the common schools, a proper observance of the centennial of the inauguration of the first president of the United States, George Washington—he who was "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

As this suggestion meets my hearty approval, I therefore invite the teachers, pupils and trustees of the Public Schools of Christian county, to meet at their respective school houses on Thursday, April 30th, for the purpose of commemorating this important event by engaging in such devotional exercises, readings, essays, orations, etc., as may be deemed appropriate to the occasion.

Let us as agents and instruments in the cause of popular education, show our high appreciation of the blessings of free government by training the children in the schools in their duty to society, home and country, and educating them in the knowledge of our free Institutions.

Very Respectfully,
F. H. RENSHAW,
County Supt.

A new first-class Stock of Clothing to be retailed out at Manufacturers' Cost and no humbug.

The cost sale chestnut has been practiced on the people of Christian county so often that it seems to me that all will doubt this as soon as they read it. But all I ask of those wishing to purchase good, reliable, honest Clothing at the prices that the largest merchants pay for them. Come to my store and I will prove to you that the prices I ask are cost and nothing else.

My object in this proceeding is to close out my stock of Clothing as soon as possible in order to use the up stairs of my house for other goods and will not handle Clothing at all when my present stock is sold out, so if you intend to inspect this elegant stock do so before the best are picked out. This will be a bona-fide cost closing out sale to sell out this stock. I will give to any one wishing it the key to my mark and they can at their own leisure look through my goods and see what I paid for them and take them home at that price. Remember the place.

When with some soap a salesman bold
Comes in your place to there unfold
His samples, and proceeds to say:
"This equals, sir, in every way
The IVORY; 'tis made in fact
By the same formula exact;
'Tis just as white, indeed the man
Who makes this soap by perfect plan,
Has made the IVORY o'er and o'er
For Procter & Gamble heretofore.
Besides, this soap brings to the till
More profit than the IVORY will."

He means to use by such a game,
Your reputation and good name
A fraud or counterfeit to sell
Of what is known and proven well.

This means his soap will never go
On its own merits fast or slow;
And you, like him, the truth must toss,
Clean overboard, or sell at loss. [land
It means still more, that throughout the
The IVORY SOAP'S in great demand.
For none chase with imitations frail
An article that has no sale.
And who for counterfeit will pay
The price of genuine goods to-day?
Then whence can the advantage flow
Or how can you "more profit" know?

Reply to all who do intend
To use you thus to gain their end:
"When you for your own soap create,
Upon its worth demand as great
As IVORY SOAP this day can claim,
I'll buy, should trade require the same;
But have no time, I tell you true,
To introduce your soap for you,
And customers perhaps offend
With goods I fear to recommend."

Don't buy the soap that salesmen say:
"Is like the IVORY every way."
For grocers can this tale unfold
Of every hundred cakes they sold
On seventy-five a less they bore,
Or else it ne'er had left their store.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory'" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and Insist upon getting it.

WARNER'S Log Cabin Remedies—old-fashioned, simple compounds, used in the days of our hardy forefathers, are "old timers," but "old reliable." They comprise Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, "Hops and Buchu Remedy," "Cough and Consumption Remedy," "Hair Tonic," "Extract," for External and Internal Use "Plasters," "Rose Cream," for Catarrh, and "Liver Pills." They are put up by H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's safe Remedies, and promise to equal the standard value of those great preparations. All druggists keep them.

The Manufacturer's Record of Baltimore—the South's great industrial exponent—of which it has been said that it is "the most widely quoted industrial paper in the world," does not confine its sphere to the manufacturing interests of this section, but covers every line of progress looking to the advancement and prosperity of the south, and with the last issue commenced the publication of a complete weekly list of every new private and national bank organized anywhere in the South. As the activity in the establishment of new banks is one of the surest indications of the South's increasing prosperity, it is interesting to notice what a large number are being started. The wide circulation of the Manufacturer's Record among bankers and other capitalists in New York and New England, who look to it for information about the opportunities for investment in the South, makes this new feature of great value to the people of all sections of the country.

PRIMITIVE PATRIOTS.

The safety and strength of our nation must ever rest in the homes of its people.

In the log cabins of early days our fathers lived. Simple homes they were, but from within their mud-chinked walls there sprang a hardy race of men, full of love for home and liberty.

Strong in body and mind, they laid the foundation of America's greatness. Well was their work performed, for upon that solid rock has grown, as years have passed, the imposing structure of cherished independence.

Stately and grand, it is worthy of its designers.

Though the heroes of that time have long since passed away, they have left us rich by inheritance.

Whilst our fathers were plaudng America's future destiny, our sweet mothers were not idle, for in their ever-mindful care for the welfare of their loved ones, they discovered some of the best remedial agents known for the relief of the sick.

Good old-fashioned home cures, prepared from roots and barbs—they have ever been standards of excellency.

Though lost for a time has been the preperations of these old-time "home cures" they are again revived, and are known to the public as Warner's Log Cabin Remedies; chief among them being Warner's Log Cabin Sarsaparilla, the best of the old-time blood purifiers.

In those times every family was its own doctor and the heroes and heroines of early days were wonderfully healthy and long-lived.

America owes its freedom to the rugged bodies and healthy minds of our fathers and so long as the spirit of Freedom they instilled prevails and a true appreciation of our grand institution remains there is no danger of the downfall of the Republic.

BUCK'S BUDGET.

CROFTON, KY., April 21, 1889.—A fishing party from here composed of both sexes, numbering twenty-five, spent last Friday on the banks of the west fork of Pond River, near Esq Geo. H. Myers', with the usual luck.

C. A. Brasher and J. R. Shalton supplied themselves with fishing tackle and an oyster can filled with worms and went to Tradewater Friday evening to amuse themselves with the tiny tribe for a while. C. A. B. landed a few small catfish and J. R. S. a three-pound catfish and thus their labors ended.

Some sneak thief effected an entrance into the Empire Company's store by boring a hole in the floor Friday and appropriated to his own use twelve dollars in cash and some goods.

John Watson had a silver watch stolen from the house of John Dalton on the Madisonville road, yesterday. The thief made his escape.

Mr. Will Rowe and his mother, Mrs J. W. Rowe, left Friday night for Auburn, Ill, where they will remain some time visiting relatives.

Miss Birdie Johnson is visiting her cousin, Mrs. J. W. Dillard, in Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Sallie Clark is confined to her bed of rheumatism.

Mrs. Midley Cansler died at the residence of her husband, a few miles west of here, April 19. She leaves an infant, a loving husband and many friends to mourn their loss. We extend to them our condolence.

Several farmers were in town yesterday who say that the dry weather has killed many of the tobacco plants but none seemed to be very much grieved about it. BUCK.

The Buffalo Lick Baptist Church, near Cerulean Springs, will be dedicated on the first Sunday in May. Rev. J. U. Sparkin will preach the dedicatory sermon. A basket meeting will be held Saturday before the 1st Sunday and dinner will also be on the grounds Sunday.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly For May 1889.

The May number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly, crowded as usual with attractive pictures and good reading, opens with a well-illustrated article, by George C. Hurlbut, on "The Paris Exposition and its Significance," which is of special interest and timeliness, closely preceding, as if does the opening of the great French Universal Exposition in commemoration of the one hundredth anniversary of the fall of Bastille. Another notable contribution is David S. Banks's "A New Yorker in Yucatan," giving with a profusion of pictures a modern traveler's impressions of this mysterious archaeological wonderland of Central America. A review of the principal "Artistic Conception of Cleopatra accompanied amongst other illustrations by John Sartain's beautiful copy of the Eucanstic Tablet found at Hadrian's Villa, materially helps the imagination to fancy how Egypt's queenly beauty looked. "Madame de Sevigne's Grandmother" is a pleasant bit of literary biography; and the fully illustrated articles on "The Lake Michigan Region" and "Glasgow" ably represent the departments of travel and discription. These are only a few of the many attractions, in the form of stories, sketches, essays, poems, scientific articles, art illustrations, which make up a model number of this popular magazine.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company has arranged with Postmaster-General Wanamaker for a postal-car route between Richmond, Va., and Cincinnati, O Four (1) post-office cars have been ordered, and they are to be run on the new Vestibule Limited Express which the Chesapeake & Ohio will put on early in May.

This a very important addition to the mail facilities between the Ohio Valley and the South-eastern States, as well as at junction and distributing points in Virginia and West Virginia.

MANUFACTURE OF BRASS.

As Art Known to the Ancient Egyptians and the Corinthians.

Brass is formed by fusing together copper and zinc. Different proportions of these metals produce brasses possessing very marked distinctive properties. The portions of the different ingredients are seldom precisely alike; these depend upon the requirements of various uses for which the alloys are intended. Peculiar qualities of the constituent metals also exercise a considerable influence on the results.

Brass is fabled to have been first accidentally formed at the burning of Corinth, 146 B. C.; but articles of brass have been discovered in the Egyptian tombs, which prove it to have had a much greater antiquity. Brass was known to the ancients as a more valuable kind of copper. The yellow color was considered a natural quality, and was not supposed to indicate an alloy. Certain mines were much valued, as they yielded this gold-colored copper, but after a time it was found that by melting copper with a certain earth (calamine), the copper was changed in color. The nature of the change was still unsuspected.

Alloys of copper and zinc retain their malleability and ductility when the zinc is not above thirty-three to forty per cent. of the alloy. When the zinc is in excess of this, a crystalline character begins to prevail. An alloy of one copper to two zinc may be crumbled in a mortar when cold.

Yellow brass that files and turns well may consist of copper four, zinc one to two. A greater proportion of zinc makes it harder and less tractable; with less zinc it is more tenacious, and hangs to the file like copper. Yellow brass (copper two, zinc one) is hardened by the addition of two to three per cent. of tin, or made more malleable by the same proportion of lead.

Copper, zinc, tin and lead in varying proportions form alloys, always in definite quantity for a given alloy. The ones with which some of the metals are burned away at comparatively low temperatures renders it a very easy matter to make several different kinds of metals with the same mix. This very thing occurs, and the grunt difficulty in getting bearing brasses uniform in quality causes some engineers to babbit all bearings as the best way to insure uniformity. One lot of castings may be soft and tough, another hard, and so on.

Zinc is added the last thing as the crucible comes out of the furnace, and the mixing of the mass is a matter of uncertainty. If the metal is too hot for the zinc a large percentage goes off in the form of a greenish cloud of vapor, and the longer the stirring goes on the more escapes. The two metals which enter into the composition of brass have an affinity for each other, but they must be brought into intimate contact before they will combine. Some brass founders use precautions to prevent volatilization of the more fusible metals, introducing them under a cover of powdered charcoal on top of the copper.—Glasgow Engineer.

Filling the Type-Writer.

Tommy—What is that thing in the window, mamma?

Mamma—That is a type-writer, Tommy.

Tommy—Where does the champagne go in?

Mamma—Why, what are you thinking of, Tummy. No one puts champagne in it.

Tommy—O, yes they do. Papa told Mr. Goitt last night that it often cost him ten dollars to fill his type-writer with champagne. So, now.

Mamma—I will ask your papa about that, Tommy.—St. Paul Globe.

A CHEERFUL CALLER.

How Mother Pettibone Raised the Spirits of Her Parson's Wife.

"Ever hive over tow Saouth Windville?" asked Mrs. Pettibone, who had run in to borrow "jest a cup full o' green tea" of the new parson's wife. "No? Wa-al, I thought not myself, but there's them that says your husband's the same man that got turned nout o' the Baptis' pulpit there 'cause he had four wives. Sune name as your husband, an' jest seek a lookin' man, 'cordin' tow all accounts. I don't pay much 'tention tow seek reports, for jest as often as not they're made nout o' hull cloth, b t there's a good many 't believes this, an' I've heern tell there's some talk o' gettin' up an investigatin' committee. You an' me has been so neighborly-like ever since you came here 't I thought I ought tew tell you. Naow, don't you worry, for I dessay he'll stand investigatin', an' if he don't the church 'll keep the matter quiet.

"Indignant! Wa-al, I don't wonder. It's reel lucky you've a friend like me tow advise with. I notice you don't have near's much comp'ny's the last minister's wife did. She was a reel active woman, an' she jest kep' things hummin'. We was all awful sorry when she went away. You aint a bit like her. A good many says you're stuck up, but I tell 'em you're doin' the best you kin, in that they oughter to take the make nout o' their own eyes afore they try tow git the bean nout o' yourn. O, I stand by you, Mis' Smith.

"There was a good deal o' talk 'baout that silk gownd you wore tew meetin' last Sunday. A good many thought 'twa'n't suitable for a minister's wife, with all that bead tri mimin' an' lace. Mis' Skidmore, said she, she'd think your husband would p'lut ut tow you that a congregation looks fur somethin' besides flummeries an' laces in a minister's wife; but I said, says I, 'Mis Skidmore, she ain't nothin' but a gal, an' you can't 'xpect an old head on young shoulders.'

"That was a pauwerful sermon o' your husband's las' Sabbath dny. A good many took offense at it, though, an' I understand that 'Squire Parker talks o' goin' over tew the Presbyterians on account of it. 'Taint well tew be pussonal in a sermon. What nour folks likes best is discourses on 'Faith' an' 'Eturnal Punishment' an' sich subjects.

"Tim Higsbee says se know he heerd that sermon tew years ago in New York, an' that there wa'nt six words difference, an' he's talkin' 'baout bringin' the matter up afore the elders; but I wouldn't worry myself 'baout that. 'Tain't likely 'll'll come tew any thing.

"Wa-al, I must be goin'. I didn't mean tew stop a minit when I come, but you looked so kinder dnowuhearted 't I thought I'd try tow cheer you up a little. Good mornin'."—F. A. Stearns, in N. Y. World.

OF DOUBTFUL MIND.

The Experience of an Argumentative Chap with a Chicago Car Conductor.

A man, a wheezy old fellow upon whom the coming of age seemed to have a comical effect, got on a North Chicago grip-car the other evening. He appeared to be extremely anxious, and when the conductor came along, the old fellow asked:

"Is this here what they call a Limits car?"

"Yes."

"It goes way out yonder, I reckon."

"Out to the end of the line."

"Goes as far as Fullerton avenue, I reckon."

"Yes, way beyond that."

"Then you are sure this is a Limits car?"

"Of course I am," the conductor answered, rather sharply, and had turned to go away when the old fellow took hold of his coat-tail and detained him.

"My friend Lymun Sanders has been livin' here a long time and has allus wanted me to come an' see him, an' in his letter he told me that when I came to be shure an' take a Limits car. An' you say this is it."

"Yes," the conductor snapped. "Turn loose my coat."

"Yes, in a minit. Now my friend said that a Limits car had a green light on it."

"There's the green light," answered the conductor, pulling.

"Is that what you call a green light?"

"Do you see it's green? Turn loose my coat, I tell you."

"In a minit, but I'd call that light blue."

"It makes no difference what you call it. It's green all the same."

"Wall, naw," said the old fellow, "for the sake of argyment we'll say the light is green."

"No argument about it," the conductor replied, "I know it's green. Leave go my coat."

"Wall," replied the old fellow, "you may take any view you please, but I am, for the sake of argyment, going to admit that the light is green; but does that give me any shority that this car won't turn off before it gits to where I'm goin'? See, it'e wiudin' around over whicher way now."

The conductor tore himself loose and slammed the door, and the old fellow, still in doubt, remarked: "If a man duwn my way wants ter know any thing folks will tell him, but it's mighty diffunt upshere."—Arkansaw Traveler.

A New Departure

from ordinary business methods is made by the manufacturers of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in guaranteeing this world-famed remedy to cure all diseases arising from derangements of the liver or stomach, as indigestion, or dyspepsia, biliousness or "liver complaint," or from impure blood, as boils, blotches pimples, eruptions, scalp disease, salt-rheum, scrofulas and swellings and kindred ailments. Money paid for "Discovery" promptly returned if, on fair trial, it don't cure.

Wise Sayings and Wise Said Them—An Article for the Scrap-Book.

Dean Swift is credited with "Bread is the staff of life."

It was Keats who said: "A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

"Man proposes, but God disposes," remarked Thomas a Kempis.

Franklin is authority for "God helps those who help themselves."

"All cry and no wool" is an expression found in Butler's "Hudibras."

We are indebted to Colley Cibber, not to Shakespeare, for "Richard is himself again."

Edward Coke, the English jurist, was of the opinion that "A man's house is his castle."

"When Greek joins Greek then was the tug of war," was written by Nathaniel Lee in 1602.

"Variety's the spice of life" and "Not much the worse for wear," were coined by Cowper.

Edward Young tells us "Death loves a shining mark" and "A fool at forty is a fool indeed."

Charles Pinckney gave the patriotic sentiment, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute."

"Of two evils I have chosen the least" and "The end must justify the means" are from Matthew Prior.

To Milton we owe "The paradise of fools," "A wilderness of sweets," and "Moping melancholy and moonstruck madness."

Christopher Marlowe gave forth the invitation so often repeated by his brothers in a less public way: "Love me little, love me long."

The poet Campbell found that "Coming events cast their shadows before" and "'Tis distance lends enchantment to the view."

To Dr. Johnson belongs "A good hater," and to Macintosh, in 1701, the phrase, often attributed to John Randolph: "Wise and masterly inactivity."

Thomas Tasser, a writer of the sixteenth century, said: "It's an ill wind turns no good," "Better late than never," "Look ere thou leap," and "The stone that is rolling can gather no moss."

"First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his fellow-citizens" (not his countrymen), appeared in the resolutions presented to the House of Representatives in December, 1799, by General Henry Lee.

"Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise" is in Gray's ode to Eton College.

Milton wrote: "Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war" in his ode to Cromwell.—Chicago Journal.

This school has an enviable record for the thorough methods of teaching pursued.
Old fossilized ideas of training and discipline find no place in its management.
The Cramming process in Education is studiously avoided, as well as the machine methods of many, so called, grade schools.
To know from memory is good, but to be able to know by thought is better. Pupils are encouraged to the exercise of all their better powers.
The faculty will remain, as it has been for a year past except the place of Prof. Rabney will be supplemented by PROF. FLEMING.
It will be seen, therefore, that the faculty consists of the same number of professors and teachers and that all the advantages usually offered are still to be obtained as any former session.
Young men may board at any
Approved Boarding House,
but persons, who may wish to put their sons, or wards under the entire care of the faculty may place them with Prof. H. G. Fleming who will exercise a fatherly oversight over them.
Young ladies board only with Prof. Scobey in the College building, where every comfort of a home is provided for them.
